Jerusalem Labyrinth
by Rachel Roggel

Dear Labyrinth Friends,

Ever since I attended a workshop led by Rachel Roggel from Jerusalem, I have been fascinated by Interfaith use of the labyrinth. When Rachel spoke at the 2004 TLS Annual Gathering in Minnesota, she made me think of interesting new possibilities for use of labyrinths.

I'm starting to gather a collection of interfaith labyrinth resources. Please let me know if you find any interesting resources on this intriguing subject. My most recent discovery is a video interview with a Jewish Rabbi about his experience walking the labyrinth. I now have a link to this video on the LNN Resources Page. It's in the section called "More Interesting Labyrinth Links", but the easiest way to find it is to go to the Prison Labyrinth Resources and scroll up.

Sorry. We now have so many resources that it's getting harder to find things. Kevin and I will try to find a way to rearrange a few things to make it easier. Suggestions are welcome. Help with the job would also be welcome. In the meantime, I hope you will find other interesting items when you're searching for what you need.

Many years ago, I heard about use of the labyrinth at the Parliament of World Religions. At the time, I thought this was a one time happening. There were several labyrinth events at the most recent Parliament of World Religions in Australia in December 2010 (summer in Australia). So, I was interested in reading lots of information about that which appeared in the Summer 2010 edition of Labyrinth Matters Newsletter which is in the Australian section of our Resources.

Walking the Labyrinth Together: An Interfaith Spiritual Journey

An Interfaith Panel will be among the workshops at the NWRegional Labyrinth Gathering, Saturday, June 25, 2011. Panelists include 4 women representing 4 faith traditions: Muslim, Jewish, Zen Buddhist, and Roman Catholic.

That day is going to be packed with interesting things to do. You should get a friend to go with you so you can participate in different workshops and discuss your experiences.

Saturday, June 25, at Mission of the Atonement in Beaverton will be directed to people who want a more intense labyrinth experience. This is a full day event packed with a variety of events including ceremonies, a labyrinth marketplace, , workshops (one presented by Paula Hills of our labyrinth group) as well as 2 talks by Jill Geoffrion on different subjects than she discussed on Friday.

There will be several temporary labyrinths on the lawn plus an opportunity to learn the Appleton Dance. This is the time to really connect with some labyrinth enthusiasts from around the Northwest. This is such a rare opportunity that some people are traveling hundreds of miles and driving several hours to be here for this event. http://labyrinthnetworknorthwest.org/resources/2011/110626_NWRLG_Saturday.pdf
