Inmates walking the labyrinth
Coffee Creek Correctional Facility
Wilsonville, Oregon

Prison Labyrinth News

This week I had a nice surprise. Someone who had read an article about LNN's prison labyrinth program wrote to tell me about a jail labyrinth she works with in Massachusetts. Their inmates worked together to create an outdoor permanent labyrinth. We now have a copy of that article on the LNN Resources Page along with a description of their program. It's good to compare notes. There are many different ways to do good work with inmates.

LNN's Prison Labyrinth Program

LNN has 2 wonderful prison labyrinth programs. One is at Coffee Creek State Women's Prison in Wilsonville, OR and the other is at Oak Creek Correctional Facility for Girls in Albany, OR. These two programs have totally different approaches as each tries to meet the needs of their community of inmates. Read the descriptions:

You are invited to come as a visitor to see what we're doing. Come and walk the labyrinth with us at the prison. The inmates enjoy have visitors, so you would feel quite welcome. Visitors have no obligation to come more than one time. Contact Christiana@LabyrinthNetwork Northwest for more to schedule a visit.

More Volunteers are needed for both of LNN's Prison Labyrinth Teams. All that's required is an appreciation of labyrinths and a couple hours of your time once each month.
